PERSONAL, SOCIAL & HEALTH EDUCATION POLICY (PSHE)

The pastoral curriculum at The Vaughan is an important part of the formation of open-minded and compassionate people. The curriculum aims to:

- develop positive attitudes to academic tasks and develop effective ways of study for the individual pupil;
- encourage good manners, confidence and articulacy in dealing with both peers and older people;
- prepare pupils to cope with impending tasks, such as, for example, induction in the First Form or Sixth Form and the transition from school to employment or higher education;
- explore areas of personal development which may be problematical for that age group.

The School seeks to provide Personal, Social and Health Education in a variety of ways:

- Through a programme devised for Forms 1-5 and through the Enrichment programmes in the Sixth Form.
- Through a series of collapsed curriculum days
- Through the work carried out by Departments on a cross-curricular basis, in particular the work of the Religious Education, Science and Careers Departments.
- Through being informed by the Government's Healthy Schools Initiative.
- Through the School's daily assemblies.
- Through the example given by adults in the School.
